

ABSTRACT

The present invention relates to a method and system for providing a partial payment in the electronic commerce via the Internet. More particularly, the present invention relates to the present invention relates to a method and system which can more simplify procedures of payment when a user makes a payment with a plurality of payment means or when the user cancels a payment partially, changes a payment means, or changes goods.